Weapons Bill Okayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives is channeling an extra $44.8 million into civil defense in an effort one lawmaker says could cut U.S. casualties to 20 million in a nuclear war.

In approving a $35.9-billion weapons bill for fiscal 1978, the House boosted the civil defense budget by 50 per cent to $134.8 million. The Pentagon had requested only $90 million.

The action Monday came after Rep. Ronald V. Dellums, D-Calif., attacked any spending for civil defense as "a waste, ludicrous, insane. It makes me feel I'm sitting on the floor of the House in a dream. It's the height of insanity."

But backers of the move cited a need for American preparedness, particularly after the recent Soviet rejection of a U.S. strategic arms proposal.

Rep. G. William Whitehurst, R-Va., said it will be "destabilizing for us to do nothing in response to the growing Soviet (civil defense) program." He argued that civil defense shelters could reduce American fatalities in a nuclear war "down to 20 million."

"It's criminal to say there's no hope" of saving lives in a nuclear war, Whitehurst added.

The procurement bill, which is $60.8 million more than President Carter requested, passed 347 to 43. Separate bills are expected to bring the 1978 defense budget up to a record $120 billion.

The Senate has not yet acted on the bill. If Congress actually ends up spending the money — after authorization, separate votes are needed to appropriate the funds — it would be the most spent on civil defense since fiscal 1962, when $207.6 million was appropriated.

The House also rejected, 301 to 88, a Dellums amendment to cut U.S. troops overseas by 17,000. Although it did not specify where, Dellums and others said the troops could be withdrawn from South Korea.

Dellums' amendment would have withdrawn 17,000 of the 462,000 U.S. troops overseas and cut the total U.S. armed force of two million men and women by 50,000.

Rep. Richard White, D-Texas, said the results could "be disastrous" and Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., said "the signal it would give is that we're getting tired; we want to get out of the picture."

President Carter has said he favors withdrawing the 33,000 U.S. ground troops from South Korea while leaving air support there. But he has not yet formally proposed it.

During the debate, strong sentiment surfaced for revising military pensions, which now cost $9 billion a year and are predicted to go to $34 billion in the year 2000.

A hastily drawn amendment by Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., to simply put all future servicemen under Congress' own, less lucrative pension plan, lost, 247 to 148.

The House approved one amendment that would require the Pentagon to give Congress 60 days' notice before closing or reducing any bases.

It also approved an amendment prohibiting military officers from accepting jobs within three years with any defense contractors they were in a position to help get contracts.

Summer Job Supply Clouded

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — It's a question of supply and demand for college and high school students trying to find summer work this year.

The supply of jobs is only slightly higher than last year, employment officials say, but the demand for work far exceeds the relatively limited number of openings.

"Right now I can tell them it's hopeful," Gary Wiepking, director of student employment at Ohio State University, said of a student's chances of finding a job. "Our job board is not plentiful, but it's picking up."

The Department of Transportation reports a "monumental" number of applications for summer work. The Department of Natural Resources says it gets about eight applications for each job available. Armco Steel Corp. in Middletown calls the number of applications for summer work "overwhelming."

Summer employment in some industry and business will be up this year from 1976.

Two amusement parks, Cedar Point and Geauga Lake, each plan to hire about 6 per cent more summer workers.

Armco will increase by 10 per cent the number of people it plans to employ during the season.

"They'll be hiring temporary help, maybe as many as 250," said Don Easterly, manager of corporate information. "They are absolutely overwhelmed with applicants."

Those who land the steel mill jobs will find "it's hard work," Easterly said, but they are among the most financially rewarding of the summer variety. The base wage is about $6 an hour, he said.

Those who like outdoors work might apply at the Department of Natural Resources' Division of Parks and Recreation.

"We hire approximately 820 people during the summer season," says assistant chief Wes Fry. About 720 of them are already filled.

The department will spend about $3.2 million for extra help this summer when thousands of people pack 64 Ohio park areas. It's the same amount as 1976, said Fry, but mandated increases in pay and benefits will mean the money will employ about 2 per cent fewer people as camp attendants, lifeguards, conservation workers, custodial workers in cabins.

The Department of Transportation operates two summer employment programs at a cost of about $1.9 million.

"We are presently planning on hiring 540 for the Summer Youth Program," said director David L. Weir. The total is about the same as 1976. Each county is authorized five students under the program, with 100 employed in the central office.

A "Construction Engineering Aide Program" will hire about 430 people, most of them college students but also some adults such as school teachers.

DOT has been swamped with applications. "There are apparently a lot of students who can't find work somewhere else," Weir said.

Bell Won't Drop FBI Indictment Despite Protests

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite FBI claims of shattered morale, Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell says he'll continue the prosecution of an FBI man for allegedly illegal mail-opening and wiretapping because it's a matter of principle.

"What is at stake is the rule of law," Bell said Monday after listening for 90 minutes as FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley and 10 agents complained that bureau morale has suffered because of the charges and the continuing Justice Department investigation.

Bell said he has given no thought to dismissing the indictment against former FBI supervisor John J. Kearney, charged with directing an illegal mail-opening and wiretapping operation in the New York field office from August 1970 through June 1972.

The tactics were used to spy on New Yorkers thought to be in contact with Weather Underground fugitives charged with terrorist acts.

Bell promised to pursue the investigation of other FBI operations, including burglaries, and charges expected against other bureau men.

"If you break the law, ordinarily you suffer the consequences," Bell said. "Even though it happened at a time when the country was very different than it is now, if the law was broken the attorney general ought to take note of it."

He said he was not suggesting that Kearney was guilty, only that the evidence warranted the indictment. Kearney has pleaded innocent.

Kelley on April 14 publicly complained about sagging morale in the bureau and called on the attorney general to reconsider his action.

At Kelley's request, the attorney general met with the 10 agents from as many cities who had been chosen in secret ballots to represent their colleagues. The rules of the election required that five have more than 10 years of service and five have less.

"They're very upset over the indictment of John Kearney. They expressed their dismay," Bell reported. "It has had what they consider to be a very bad effect on the morale of the bureau in their areas and in other parts of the country."

But he said the law makes no provision for balancing morale against evidence of criminal conduct.

The attorney general said he invited the agents to return with detailed information about past and present investigative tactics to help him shape better policies for the bureau, including legislation spelling out the limits on FBI operations.

"I want to find out once and for all what the past practice has been to set up a system for the future, a fail-safe system where no American citizen would ever lose any rights," Bell asserted.

Skyride Accident Investigated

KINGS MILLS, Ohio (AP) — Officials at Kings Island Amusement Center said they are still investigating the malfunction of a ski lift skyride that stranded 45 persons for up to eight hours Sunday.

"We still don't know what caused three gondolas to bunch together at a pylon," park spokeswoman Ruth Voss said Monday.

"They are looking at everything and the hope now is that we can get the ride running by Saturday," she said.

The ride was shut down shortly after high winds and heavy rain hit the area, which is located 30 miles northeast of Cincinnati.

No one was injured, but firemen from five communities needed cherry picker rigs and aerial ladders to rescue persons from the 19 stranded gondolas, several of which were more than 95 feet above the ground.

The last persons removed from the ski cars were two Muncie, Ind., teenagers, Mark McAdams, 19, and Bentley Orr, 18.

"Complete concentration kept us warm," said McAdams of their ordeal. "It started to rain when the car first stalled. Then it got really cold when the rain started up, the car we were in had to be swinging about three feet both ways. Firemen had to get on the building before us and shoot blankets up with a gun."

Both were rescued after midnight by a special crane brought in from Cincinnati.

A honeymooning couple from Erlanger, Ky., were separated in different gondolas.

HOLE IN ALLEY — City workers Leroy Harris and James Orin repaired a hole which was found in the east-west alley between W. Main St. and Pinckney St. yesterday. The hole developed in paving material which was unsupported apparently because of settling. The men cut away the paving material and filled the hole with sand and gravel. They plan to re-seal it with concrete.

Public Utilities Board Meets Monday

By CRAIG ALLISON
Herald Staff Writer

The Circleville Board of Public Utilities met in regular session Monday night in the Water Department offices on E. Franklin St.

The meeting got underway at 8:10 p.m. The first item of business was to listen to Bill Lyle and Dick Penn of the YMCA Building committee.

Lyle and Penn presented blueprints of the new YMCA facility on Nicholas Drive, and told the Board that they could go two different routes on the building's sanitary sewer.

They requested the city to run a sewer line under Nicholas Drive in the area of the creek, approximately 350 feet east of Nicholas Drive, so that the YMCA could run their sewer south out of the new building and connect to the city's sewer.

The other route would be for the YMCA to exit their sewer on the south side of the building and shove it west under Nicholas Drive to connect with the city's sewer on the west side of Nicholas Drive.

Lyle and Penn feel that the YMCA could save money by connecting with a city sewer that runs east on Nicholas Drive, and the city may eventually lay a sewer line through that area in anticipation of the development of the land that is in the area.

After some discussion on the issue, Public Utilities Director Chuck Taylor advised the Board that it was too early at this point to make a definite decision. The Board will give a definite answer at a later date, pending the decision on Federal Grant monies that are anticipated.

After meeting with Lyle and Penn, the Board turned to its regular agenda and gave approval to the minutes of the last meeting.

Vouchers were also examined and approved. At this point Board member W. Harold Clifton asked Taylor what policy, if any, existed in regards to sending employees of the water and sewage departments to training schools. Clifton stated that it was his belief that if an employee was going to a school that would result in further knowledge concerning his job, then that employee should be reimbursed. Clifton went on to say that if the employee was going to school to take courses that might someday result in a higher paying job elsewhere else, then that schooling should come on the employee's time and from his pocket.

Taylor and Clyde Houdeshell, the operator of the new sewage plant, told Clifton that many times the department would receive notice of a school, and there would not be time for the

State Senators Continue Energy Probe

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State senators looking into last winter's natural gas shortage planned to hear more testimony and ask more questions today of Columbia Gas of Ohio officials.

They devoted most of an initial session Monday night to hearing testimony about what Columbia—the state's largest supplier—felt caused the shortage, and to hearing some of the company's recommendations for heading off future shortages.

Marvin E. White, Columbia's board chairman, was the leadoff witness before the Senate Energy and Public Utilities Committee. He brought along four other company spokesmen to defend its performance against major criticisms by state lawmakers and other officials.

Sen. Neal F. Zimmers Jr., D-5 Dayton, resumed his committee's investigation as members of the upper chamber returned from weekend recess to start what shapes up as a busy legislative week.

Other companies have already testified at the hearings that started several weeks ago.

Senators approved two routine bills at a brief floor session, one that updates a state law prohibiting sexual imposition on other persons, while the other delineates requirements of employers involved in the hearing of worker's compensation cases.

House members returned today to consider a bill that resulted from the natural gas shortage. It allows, but doesn't require, school officials to shift from regular to winter vacation schedules to conserve energy.

White and the other officials from Columbia contended generally that last winter's gas shortage resulted from federal regulations and environmental requirements which—combined with the coldest temperatures in state history—were responsible for Ohio's problems. The federal regulations, particularly those affecting prices, prevented development of new supplies, he said.

However, the board chairman and others reiterated their earlier contentions that a bill enacted by the legislature last year was a factor in Columbia not being able to purchase emergency gas supplies.

The bill prohibited utilities from passing along to all customers the added costs of emergency purchases for use by industry.

Subsequently, the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio (PUCO) ordered the utilities to survey their industrial customers—about 2,500 in the case of Columbia—to determine how many would be willing to share the emergency costs. Few were, Columbia's officials said, until it was too far into the winter and supplies were unavailable.

White told the committee the PUCO requirement "completely disrupts the company's ability to develop these supplemental gas supplies. The company has filed an application with the PUCO asking that these requirements be suspended."

The board chairman, aware that some members of the legislature are ready to defend last year's law, said he was not asking for its repeal. He only wants, he said, for the lawmakers to "review its provisions and clarify it."

Zimmers permitted the committee to pursue only what he called "clarification" questions at the Monday night hearing, reserving others until the end of the formal presentation of testimony.

White stressed that he didn't want to use "scare tactics" but felt he should warn that unless the state restrictions against emergency purchases are changed and clarified, another colder than normal winter this year could produce circumstances similar to those of last winter.

He assured the committee Columbia is "deeply concerned...and well aware of the criticism and complaints directed against it." But he pointed out that despite "the coldest winter in history, not a single home or human needs customer lost service for even one day, and no plant was without minimum gas needs."

Paul R. Bigley, Columbia's senior vice president, told Zimmers' committee that the federal delays caused cancellation or deferrals of projects which would have enabled the utility to take new customers in 1978. "It now appears new customers will not be taken until the 1980-1981 winter," he said.

Bigley labeled as "not true" charges that Columbia did not plan for colder than expected weather. "Facilities and supplies are designed to serve the coldest winter weather that can be expected in a 10-year period," he said.

James R. Lee, industrial gas utilization manager, said Columbia developed the first self help program in the nation in 1973 "and today has some 22 billion cubic feet annually under self help contracts involving 94 separate agreements." Self help programs are those under which industries and other property owners drill for gas to meet their own needs.

No Simple Energy Plan, Lance Says

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — President Carter's budget director says solutions to the nation's inflation and energy problems are tied together, and there is no simple, cheap or painless way to deal with energy demands.

Bert Lance told the annual meeting of The Associated Press Monday that "the success that we finally enjoy in regard to energy will have a direct impact on the success that we enjoy in regard to inflation. The two are tied together because one is basic to the other."

Lance did not discuss specifics in Carter's complex plan of penalties and incentives aimed at reducing energy consumption, but he predicted success once the plan is understood.

"We tried to find a plan that was simple. There's no way to devise a simple plan to deal with the problems of energy in this nation," Lance said.

"We tried to find a plan that was cheap. But there's no way to devise a plan in relation to energy that's cheap. We tried to devise a plan that was painless. There's no way to develop a program in relation to energy that is painless," the 45-year-old former Georgia banker said.

"It's going to require some hard and tough choices on behalf of the American people, and I for one happen to think that the American people will respond in good fashion to that sort of a challenge as long as they are given the facts truly and openly and candidly, and they are told what the problems really are," he said.

Lance complimented the newspaper men and women for bringing home the severity of the nation's energy problem in news stories and editorials.

"It's been fairly presented, and it's been well presented, and I think the American people now are understanding the fact that we do have a problem, and that it has to be dealt with," he added.

Urge Welfare Takeover

NEW YORK (AP) — A group of 131 executives representing some of the largest corporations in the United States have called for complete federal financing of welfare.

In a petition to President Carter and Congress, the Businessmen's Committee for the Federalization of Welfare said Sunday, "We strongly feel that welfare reform is overdue and will not come without federalization."

"We feel federalization is right because welfare-Medicaid costs ought to be borne by the full national economy and it is essential if the nation's older, poverty-burdened states and cities are to continue to fulfill their economic function."

Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., has notified Carter that the Senate would not be able to consider welfare reform this session because it would be preoccupied with the President's energy program.

The businessmen's committee was organized by Morris D. Crawford Jr., chairman of the Bowery Savings Bank; William E. Ellinghouse, vice chairman of AT&T, and Andrew Heiskell, chairman of Time, Inc.

Sun Brings Nice Day To Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Sunny skies were expected over most of the nation with cool temperatures and some rain east of the Mississippi River and in the Pacific Northwest.

The National Weather Service said a sprawling high pressure system covered much of the country from the Appalachians through the Rockies.

Most of the nation will be sunny but some showers will be scattered over Washington and northern Oregon into the northern Rockies and also over the central and northern Appalachians and the lower Ohio Valley.

Except for mild temperatures in Florida and the upper Great Lakes region, cool temperatures will prevail east of the Mississippi. Warm weather was forecast over the upper Mississippi Valley and the northern plains into the northern half of the Rockies. The rest of the nation can expect seasonal temperatures.

A cold front in the west brought gusty winds and sharp temperature drops. Pendleton, Ore. recorded gusts above 60 miles per hour and an 18-degree decrease in temperature with the passage of a storm front. Western Idaho had wind gusts above 50 miles per hour.

The clear skies and light winds combined to lower temperatures over the upper Great Lakes. Readings were below the freezing mark in upper and northern lower Michigan while temperature in the 30s reached into northern Wisconsin.

$77 Million Suit Filed Over Drug

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three mothers, including a former congresswoman, are charging in a $77 million lawsuit that they unwittingly were given an experimental drug 25 years ago that later was linked to cancer in children.

The three say they were among more than 1,000 maternity patients who received the drug DES without their knowledge at the University of Chicago Lying-In Hospital in 1951 and 1952.

Patsy Mink, now assistant secretary of state for oceans and international environmental affairs, and two other women filed the suit Monday in U.S. District Court in Chicago against the university and Eli Lilly & Co., of Indianapolis, the maker of the drug the hospital used.

The class-action suit asks $70,000 for each of the 1,081 women who were given DES and another $2 million in punitive damages.

The two other women joining in the suit were Phyllis S. Wetherill, Washington, and Gladys E. Lang, Stonybrook, N.Y.

Mrs. Mink, a former Democratic congresswoman from Hawaii, said she was taking part in the suit because, "The matter is of such serious proportion that it had to be resolved for the entire group."

The suit claims that another group of 1,081 pregnant women received placebos in an experiment that lasted 20 months to test whether DES could prevent miscarriages.

Research in recent years has found links between DES and rare vaginal and cervical cancers in the daughters of women who received the drug during pregnancy. The drug also has been tied to sterility and other abnormalities in the sons of some of the women.

The Food and Drug Administration told manufacturers in 1971 to stop making DES and to halt advertising claiming it would prevent miscarriages. Many physicians also recommend that daughters of women who were administered the drug have checkups twice a year.

A spokesman for the University of Chicago said the hospital halted use of the drug and advised other physicians to do the same as a result of the experiment.

Iran Discovers Vast Coal Deposits

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Iran, the world's second largest oil exporter, has now discovered vast new coal wealth, the Tehran newspaper Ayandegan reported today. It said coal deposits found in the desert of central Iran are estimated at 20 billion tons.

Experts at the Iranian Ministry of Mines and Industries were quoted as saying the discovery has brought Iran into the ranks of the world's largest coal mine owners.

The newspaper said the deposits are estimated to be sufficient to run Iranian steel mills for 1,000 years. It said the coal is located in a long band between Naiband and Tabas in the Dasht-Kavir desert.

State Employment Data Shows Gains

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Increasing supplies of fuel, improved weather conditions and a settlement of some key strikes helped brighten the state's unemployment picture in March compared to February.

The Bureau of Employment Services said Monday that gains in both farm and nonfarm jobs helped unemployment to drop by nearly 1.5 per cent from February to March this year.

And the picture was even brighter compared to a year ago. The state's overall jobless rate fell from 8.9 per cent of the civilian labor force in March, 1976, to 7.1 per cent in March this year, the latest for which statistics are available.

There were 334,000 people out of work during March this year compared to 401,000 in February, the bureau estimated. Total employment advanced 1.6 per cent.

Employment in manufacturing industries rose 1.3 per cent with the gain concentrated in the production of durable goods. Settlement of strikes boosted employment in motor vehicles, while recovery from February's fuel shortages accounted for increases in primary metals and stone, clay and glass products.

Construction employment rose during March from its winter low. Increased outdoor activities reflected the arrival of spring weather and sparked gains in amusement services.

New Electric Motor Major Breakthrough

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An electrical engineer has designed a more efficient electric motor which he says could save one to two million barrels of oil per day if it is put into wide use.

Cravens Wanlass told a news conference Monday that his "controlled torque" motor uses up to one-third less power than most electric motors. State officials termed the motor a "major billion-dollar breakthrough for energy conservation."

The Santa Ana, Calif., engineer said the motor, developed in his home workshop, uses more efficient windings and larger capacitors — energy-

Set Removal Of Chemicals From Plant

NEW ALBANY, Ind. (AP) — A Hamilton, Ohio industrial and waste disposal firm has agreed to remove toxic chemicals from the Kentucky Liquid Recycling Inc. plant here, according to an Indiana environmental official.

Greg Pease, attorney for the Indiana State Division of Air Pollution Control, said Monday that Chemdyne Corp., the Ohio firm, transported the chemicals to Kentucky Liquid Recycling and has agreed to remove them to an approved disposal site outside of Indiana.

The FBI and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency have investigated the plant as a possible source of contamination that closed Louisville's main sewage treatment plant on March 29.

The Morris Forman Sewage Treatment Plant remains closed as workers attempt to decontaminate the facility of sludge containing hexachlorocyclopentadiene and octachlorocyclopentene, chemicals used in the manufacture of pesticides, resins and dyes.

About 25 Metropolitan Sewer District employees were treated at a hospital after breathing toxic fumes at the plant.

Meantime, about 2.6 billion gallons of raw sewage have been dumped into the Ohio River since the plant was closed.

Indiana officials were notified last week by federal investigators that 60 per cent of the 58,000 gallons of waste stored at Kentucky Liquid Recycling contained "hexa."

Pease said Chemdyne officials contacted him last week and offered to haul the chemicals to a disposal site.

"They brought it here, and it's my understanding they plan to take it away," Pease said.

However, Bruce Whitten, Chemdyne's president, refused to comment on whether the firm had transported the chemicals to the New Albany site or to any Louisville-area site.

Whitten said Chemdyne is considering some 27 disposal sites elsewhere in the nation where the chemicals can be taken.

Seasonal factors were also largely responsible for increases in education, the bureau said.

Employment in nonagricultural industries rose during March in all of Ohio's major metropolitan areas except Canton. Employment there in March was down .8 per cent from February, a result of a strike which idled workers manufacturing household appliances and fabricated metals.

The biggest employment jump, 3.2 per cent, was in the Youngstown-Warren County area. Although non-manufacturing rose seasonally, the bureau said most of the increase occurred in factory employment. The gains were attributed to stepped-up production of automobiles and to recalls of steelworkers idled by fuel shortages in February.

In Cincinnati, employment was up .8 per cent in March. The advance was largely seasonal, concentrated in nonmanufacturing areas.

Expansion in services, construction and trade boosted nonmanufacturing in Cleveland during March, with manufacturing advancing .6 per cent.

Weekly earnings of production workers in the state's factories rose to an all time high of $272.06 in March. Stepped up overtime was reported by manufacturers of metal stampings, household appliances, steel and plastic goods.

storing devices — than conventional motors. The larger capacitors allow more energy to be stored within the motor for use as needed.

"It's not an obvious design ... it looks like a dumb thing to do," Wanlass said.

Glenn Bjorklund, a spokesman for Southern California Edison Co., which tested the device, said, "No one ever thought about doing it the way he did."

Wanlass said the new motor could be used in air conditioners, swimming pool filter motors, washing machines and other appliances as well as industrial machinery.

He said it would cost about $40 to modify a current one horsepower electric motor to his design. But he added that motors in some appliances, such as refrigerators, would be more difficult to convert because of their casings.

Several hundred of the motors have been tested in Southern California for several months, Wanlass said. Officials at a fast-food operation in Santa Monica said the 11 motors tested at the establishment since February resulted in a 20 per cent power savings.

Wanlass estimates that between one and two million barrels of oil could be saved each day for every 500 million motors converted. The United States consumes 18 million barrels of oil per day.

A study for the Federal Energy Commission last year found that more than half of all the electricity generated in the nation runs electric motors in industry, business and homes.

Carter Brings Fresh Approach To Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — In his first 100 days, Jimmy Carter made his crusade "to shape a world responsive to human aspirations" a hallmark of American foreign policy.

A newcomer to the international scene, the President also set an unusually public style of diplomacy, telling the people more than they are accustomed to hearing about U.S. objectives, while upsetting traditionalists who say he is complicating negotiations.

America's claim "to teach others how to live cannot be accepted," Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev admonished the former one-term governor of Georgia.

But Carter said he saw no reason for getting upset "every time Brezhnev sneezes."

He offered the Russians terms for a nuclear weapons agreement that would have a devastating impact on future Soviet ICBM capabilities. When Moscow turned him down Carter told congressional leaders he would "hang tough."

New to world affairs, Carter confessed on occasion that he had a lot to learn. But he operated during his break-in period with a confidence and freshness that could produce some major changes in American policy if he stays on course.

These would include: —A nuclear weapons agreement with the Russians that not only slows the arms race but makes drastic reductions in existing arsenals. At the same time, Carter appears to be conditioning the American people to accept disarmament as a goal.

—Unprecedented recognition of the Palestinians. Already, Carter is the first American president to publicly endorse a "homeland" for them, which would be carved out of land held by Israel, as well as representation for Palestinians interests at a Geneva peace conference.

—Relations with Vietnam and Cuba, two old Communist adversaries. Carter has accepted the reality that only a tiny fraction of the 2,500 Americans missing in Indochina will ever be accounted for. And he authorized maritime talks with Havana despite Cuba's venturesome behavior in Africa.

—Withholding U.S. aid in order to coax other countries to relent in their violations of human rights. Three recipients, Argentina, Ethiopia and Uruguay, were cut and three others, Brazil, El Salvador and Guatemala, gave up American assistance to protest what they considered to be an intrusion into their domestic affairs.

Philosophically, Carter's concern for human rights reflected overriding American sentiment. It would be hard to find anyone to quarrel with the thoughts he expressed in a letter to Soviet dissident Andrei D. Sakharov in February.

"You may rest assured," Carter wrote, "that the American people and our government will continue our firm commitment to promote respect for human rights not only in our country but also abroad."

Still, there were obvious inconsistencies in the implementation of Carter's human rights crusade. And righteousness does not guarantee results.

The democracies on the U.S. military aid list are few, just as there are few of them in the world. On the other hand, some of the most repressive regimes, such as South Korea, the Philippines and Nicaragua, are being helped.

Moreover, the administration did not support a congressional resolution that directed the American delegate to multinational development banks to vote against aid to countries regularly violating human rights. A softer, nonbinding approach was endorsed instead.

Carter keyed his campaign primarily to the Soviet Union. And yet, there was no easing of the Russian crackdown on dissidents. Jewish emigration did not pick up.

The President also spoke out about conditions in South Korea, Cuba and other Latin American countries. And he declared that events in Uganda "disgusted the entire civilized world."

The Russians took the criticism most personally.

"It would be naive to think you can make progress in the solution of difficult and important problems while charging the atmosphere with hostility and mistrust," said Georgi A. Arbatov, a close adviser to Brezhnev and a top U.S.-watcher in the Kremlin.

But Carter, on the face of it at least, was unimpressed. He said he would not modify his human rights stands, declaring "they are consistent with the conscience of this country."

At least partly for symbolic purposes, Carter appointed Andrew Young, a black congressman from Georgia, head of the U.S. mission to the United Nations, with Cabinet rank. He got the longest leash of any of the President's subordinates.

Far more unconventional than his boss, Young became a so-called "point man," raising controversial issues and talking about them. Critics viewed him more as an unguided missile.

On British television, the former civil rights worker called Britain "a little chicken" on racial matters at home and abroad.

He suggested the Cubans "bring a certain stability and order" to Angola. Later, he said Americans should not "get all paranoid about a few Communists, or even a few thousand Communists."

On another occasion, Young was quoted as saying no one trusted the British as mediators in Rhodesia. But he has denied saying that.

Carter showed no sign of irritation with Young, but gave Vice President Walter F. Mondale responsibilities to watch over African affairs, the area Young concentrated on.

Carter's own unorthodox style of public diplomacy prompted some criticism, too.

Former President Gerald R. Ford said Carter's statements on the details of U.S. weapons proposal might make

Diamond Shamrock Sells Operation

CLEVELAND (AP) — Diamond Shamrock Corp. has sold its LaPorte, Tex., polypropylene operation to ARCO-Polymers Inc., a subsidiary of Atlantic Richfield Corp., for $150 million, the firm announced Monday.

An ARCO spokesman said the plant, which is near Houston, will broaden the company's service area.

Diamond Shamrock said that although the operation was profitable, its sale will add about 40 cents per share to second-quarter results.

it hard for him to retreat from his initial position.

Every time Carter will change his stance, Ford said, it "gives hard-liners in the Senate an opportunity to say he was outnegotiated."

One of the most prominent of them, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., backed U.S. proposals to limit Soviet long-range missiles and bombers. But, Jackson said: "Frankly, I would not have gone public on this. I suspect the Soviets have never been approached this way, with a public buildup. It is something that should be reviewed by this administration."

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, a high-ranking member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said "it is time to lower our voices and not engage in a war of words."

And former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger called on the administration to avoid "rhetorical battles" with the Russians over strategic arms negotiations.

Human rights and tactics aside, the administration, through Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, presented weapons proposals to the Russians last month that would have hit hardest at Soviet land-base missiles, while having little immediate effect on existing U.S. forces.

Soviet rejection came as no real surprise. The negotiations will resume next month in Geneva between Vance and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

"There is still enough flexibility, I believe, to have hopes we can reach an agreement," Carter told reporters April 15.

Abandoning Kissinger's step-by-step diplomacy, the President has vaulted beyond to form some conclusions about a final settlement — and to disclose them.

For the Israelis: "defensible borders," which they understand to mean territorial adjustments and security measures that could provide time to mass a counter-attack to any Arab invasion.

For the Arab states: return, with only "minor adjustments," of the land they lost to Israel in the Six-Day War of 1967.

For the Palestinians: recognition that their viewpoint is to be represented at Geneva, either directly or through "a surrogate," and that the U.S. government is persuaded that they are deserving of a "homeland."

Carter is in the midst of receiving Middle East leaders. His plan is to send Vance to the area in late June or July. His hope is to reconvene the Geneva conference before the end of next year.

Group Ends Picketing

WILLIAMSON, W.Va. (AP) — Leaders of a group protesting what they claim is inadequate federal flood relief said early today they are adding a mix-up about a phantom high-level meeting to their list of bureaucratic foul-ups.

But the group decided Monday night not to continue the picketing of area coal mines which kept at least 2,800 miners off the job Monday.

The snafu began when a White House public liaison officer told protesters that she wanted to set up a meeting with them and White House officials. But her boss, Midge Costanza, assistant to the president for public liaison, said the call by Joyce Starr was not authorized.

A spokesman for the protesters, Jim Bartlett, said the mixup was typical of federal action in the area and said the protesters were "disgusted" by White House conduct in the incident.

Tuning In The Public

By canceling the tax rebate plan on grounds the economy no longer needs a direct cash stimulus, the administration avoided near certain defeat at the hands of the Senate. Nevertheless, the history of the rebate proposal does suggest strongly the Carter administration is having more serious problems with Congress than have been revealed so far.

If the administration cannot sell the lawmakers on sending most families a government check, what luck can it have on putting across a tough energy package which would result in penalties of one kind or another for most families? The answer may lie in how effectively the administration sells its energy plans to the public.

Popular though the idea of sending government funds to constituents is with Congress, it was members of that body who reported their mail running opposed to the rebate. Opposition was of several kinds. Some correspondents thought it more important to apply the funds to the national debt. Others thought it ridiculous to send out billions in rebates at a time when the deficit was swollen so large. Still others favored a permanent tax cut over a rebate.

All of those arguments show a public sophistication the administration may have underestimated. For that reason energy proposals, if properly thought out and properly presented, could receive greater public acceptance than the rebate did. Congress will have its ear to the ground waiting for that response.

A New Wrinkle To Clothes

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE
NEW YORK — Bill Seitz is a neighborhood dry cleaner who has a terrific little sense of humor . . .

"I want you women to be careful about some of the new summer fashions they're showing in the stores," he says. "Especially, beware of those pleats you see everywhere, on skirts and tops and dresses. Those things can be treacherous, and I don't care if they're on an $800 knife-pleated import. Price is no guarantee they'll stay pleated."

"If you're considering a pleated garment, rub a little water into a section of the fabric and see if the pleats disappear. If they disappear, do not buy it!"

Also, prepare to run for your life. What if a floor manager sees you dousing the creases out of creations? Well — is it any worse than crumpling a linen skirt in your fist, to see if it wrinkles?

It's done all the time by smart women shoppers, and Seitz believes the customers deserve the right to see for, and convince, themselves of the wearability of the new summer clothes — particularly in a season when the "natural fibers" are hot fashion.

"After two decades of easy-care synthetics, the problems of cotton, silk and wool may come as a shock to many women. Which brings us back to pleats. Remember, natural fibers cannot be 'permanently pleated,' because they don't have a memory, like synthetics."

"So you take, for example, an all pleated halter dress from a top designer — price tag, $230. Now, you would think at that price it would hold up. But if you perspire, the pleats are going to disappear under the arm. If you drop liquid, even water, on the skirt the pleats may vanish forever. All I'm saying is don't lose your heart to some beautiful confection without knowing what you are, literally and economically, getting into."

As executive director of the Neighborhood Cleaners Association, Seitz regularly takes shopping trips to look at current clothes and assess their "cleanability," and this summer his next worry, after pleats, is silk.

"For some women, nothing is as luxurious as silk, but it can be a real headache. The dyes on silk may fade from sunlight or perspiration, and much of the fabric is so fragile that many spots are hard if not impossible for us to clean. If a silk dress is tight-fitting, you can be fairly sure the seams will split."

"Of course, the biggest look this year is the 'linen look.' You can get it in 100 per cent linen, or a combination of linen with a synthetic. Most of the costliest designer things are 100 per cent the real thing — and one designer is making the point that it's wrinkled already, and you should love walking around looking wrinkled. Quite a gimmick, that one."

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — On the same day that a respected housing economist was saying that single-family housing starts this year could reach a record 1.4 million, a man who monitors consumer moods was declaring things very, very bad.

That's how the economic outlook appears at the moment, at least as depicted by those who are regulars in the business of looking ahead. There is a split. The reports are contradictory, often unclear and sometimes confusing.

For reasons that don't explain themselves very clearly, some students of economic matters have begun marking down the anticipated advance of 1977, while others seem unswayed by the challenge presented in President Carter's energy message.

Kenneth Thygeson, chief economist of the U.S. League of Savings Associations, states that the housing industry is now well into what should be its best year since the boom days of the early 1970s.

Simultaneously, Albert Sindlinger comments that his company's measure of consumer attitudes, based on current and expected household money supply, took its biggest one-week drop ever, bigger even than that following imposition of the Arab oil embargo.

In Thygeson's view, Americans know their minds. They want single-family houses and they're prepared to buy and finance them with savings and easy terms. The supply of mortgage money is not just plentiful; it's abundant.

Sindlinger, however, says "This is a nation of confused people," following President Carter's energy message. We're being asked to sacrifice, he said, when that's what we've done for years. We're being told to conserve, he said, while we see government waste.

While Thygeson sees Americans expressing their confidence by committing themselves to the biggest purchases most of them will ever make, Sindlinger interprets such plans as a lack of confidence.

Listening to some of the more than 1,100 telephone interviews a week his firm conducts, Sindlinger observes: "They're buying houses for the same reason people used to buy gold."

Gold, he explained, is the last refuge of many people around the world who expect poor political or economic times. Americans are a bit different, he said. Their gold, their repository of value, is a house. A house has utility.

And if it isn't a house, he continued, it's a car, a big car, because big cars might be in short supply some day and therefore might command a fairly good price, energy shortage and taxes notwithstanding.

Thygeson and Sindlinger aren't unique. They are chosen only because they represent views that are shared by many others in the business of measuring the economy's strength, present and future.

Because they seem to be poles apart, and are joined by hundreds of their colleagues at those poles, there does indeed seem to be some collective confusion about the future.

Bringing them together at the positive pole seems to be still another challenge for President Carter, one in which he apparently could succeed.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I get hunger pains in the middle of the day. Does this mean that I have an ulcer?

Mr. T.Y., Minn.

Dear Mr. Y.:
Occasional hunger pains, even those that are relieved by food, do not necessarily mean that you have a stomach ulcer. Hunger pains, in most instances, are due to the fact that the stomach is empty. With nothing in the stomach, the muscles have nothing to contract down on. It is for this reason that most hunger pains are relieved by eating something.

Doctors do consider the periodic "cyclic" hunger pains as a ulcer of the stomach or the small intestine (duodenum).

The fact that eating relieves hunger pains is very significant as a diagnostic sign. When such a history is given to a doctor, he follows through with X-ray studies of the stomach and intestines. This, of course, is the positive way to determine if someone has an ulcer.

sex, no age, no social or economic level and no race that can be considered immune to syphilis.

Despite all educational campaigns, syphilis still remains one of the great plagues of mankind. Present-day sexual promiscuity is responsible for the fact that syphilis now exists in epidemic and pandemic (everywhere) proportions.

Unfortunately, many irresponsible people fail to bring a venereal infection to the attention of their doctor. Young people, especially, are fearful of parental reactions, and hide this serious problem.

Even more unfortunate is the fact that the initial sore, or "Chancere" of the genitals and the mouth, may disappear after a few days, even without treatment. The consequent result is that many of those who have been exposed to syphilis and might have been cured by early treatment forget about it, only to come to a later realization that the disease did NOT disappear.

Secondary complications of syphilis are serious and can be very destructive.

Harsha Reports

BY WILLIAM H. HARSHA
Representative To Congress
Sixth District Of Ohio

The Justice Department's relentless investigation of the Federal Bureau of Investigation gives one pause to wonder just who are the real enemies of this nation and who constitutes the real threat to our security.

In the late 1960's and early 1970's, who would have considered the violent bomb-tossing members of the Weather Underground anything other than threats to the security of our nation and the safety of our citizens?

Most Americans abhorred the apprehended and the violence stopped.

So, the FBI, in its vigilant pursuit of some of the most notorious terrorists fugitives, took actions which by today's standards were questionable, although they were not so construed at the time.

After a year of what has all the appearances of a witch hunt, the

'Ministers' Arrested In Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — Two leaders of what police believe to be a hedonistic "church" were arrested here Monday for investigation of distributing obscene materials and promoting prostitution.

Police arrested Walter P. Hedio, 49, and Robert J. Taylor, 30, both of Cleveland, after an eight-week undercover investigation of a group calling itself the True Followers of Jesus Church. Both were free on $100 bond each.

The headquarters of the group, which police estimate has 200 followers, consists of three bedrooms and a bar, police said.

Last week, police raided the place and said they confiscated 21 pornographic films, 45 bottles of liquor and beer and an unspecified amount of marijuana. Police charged that the location is a front for prostitution and pornographic activities. Several women were arrested on prostitution charges.

Sgt. Richard A. McIntosh and policewoman Sandra L. Ramsey, the undercover agents, said Hedio and Taylor urged them to become ministers in the "church" in order to avoid paying income taxes.

In 1962, Hedio pleaded guilty to charges of possession of obscene photographs and in 1974, he was convicted of possessing liquor for sale without a state permit.

Hedio used to be the leader of the Ero-Hedon Society Inc., which he described as "a nondenominational religious fellowship dedicated to pleasure"—the same philosophy as his present group. He has protested his arrests on the ground that he was practicing his religion as he saw fit.

Carter Wins Public Favor

NEW YORK (AP) — President Carter's proposed energy program has won him favor with the public, but the majority of Americans think the program will hurt the economy and impose personal hardships, according to a Gallup poll.

The survey said 40 per cent of the 507 persons questioned were more favorably disposed toward the President because of his program, while 39 per cent said they felt the same and 13 per cent felt less favorable.

The telephone survey was conducted for Newsweek magazine last Wednesday night and Thursday after Carter had announced his energy plan to a joint session of Congress before a national television audience.

Newsweek said 82 per cent of those questioned felt increased energy costs would cause personal economic hardship.

The magazine said 64 per cent felt the nation's economy would suffer if the program was adopted.

According to the survey, 54 per cent of those questioned said they felt the nation is faced with a very serious energy crisis. Two weeks ago, 43 per cent of those sampled believed that the nation's energy shortages were serious, the survey said.

School Aid Shows Big Increase

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — School aid from combined state and local government sources averaged $1,172 per pupil last year, a record 11.4 per cent increase, the Ohio Public Expenditures Council reports.

Despite implementation of the equal yield basic aid formula, however, a wide disparity in support continued in evidence among local districts.

Per pupil spending ranged from a high of $1,658 in Cuyahoga Heights to $763 in the Lynchburg-Clay District in rural Highland County.

It should be noted that the equalization formula, which attempts to offset disparities in school district

U.N. Report Contradicts Oil Figures

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — A United Nations report says the world probably has enough oil and gas to last at least 100 years, but much of it will be expensive to tap.

The report, which says conventional sources could take care of the demand for the next 45 or 55 years, appeared to contradict the Central Intelligence Agency report which President Carter used in opening his campaign for American conservation of energy.

The CIA report said: "In the absence of greatly increased energy conservation, projected world demand for oil will ... substantially exceed capacity by 1985."

The U.N. report said: "Additional petroleum and gas resources would most probably be available, albeit at a substantially higher cost ... during the period of transition to the use of renewable energy sources, even if this transition period should last a hundred years or more."

The U.N. document is a summary of a report based on a conference held last July in Laxenburg, Austria. About 70 geologists, engineers, economists and systems analysts attended the conference, which was sponsored by the U.N. Institute for Training and Research and the International Institute for Applied Systems Analysis.

The full report is to be issued May 1. The summary concluded that oil would remain the world's most important hydrocarbon source of energy "for many years to come."

It said new reserves of fuel may be discovered, especially in developing countries and offshore, and that through technical advances extraction will become more efficient.

Stale Crackers Offered By Agency

DETROIT (AP) — Civil defense officials are asking if "Polly wants a cracker?" Or anyone else, for that matter.

They are stuck with 240,000 boxes of crackers, left from the 1960s when the federal government stocked 600 Detroit-area nuclear fallout shelters with provisions.

The 5 million pounds of crackers have since outlived their shelf life. In other words, they are rancid or stale. Civil defense officials say some will be used to feed squirrels and deer, but the rest are being offered to chicken farmers or anyone else willing to pick them up.

In addition to the crackers, the provisions included hard candy.

The candy is still good, although somewhat tasteless by now, authorities said.

property valuations, was funded at only 17 per cent of its goal level in the 1975-76 school year. As presently written, the 1977-79 state budget would lift that level to 76 per cent in the 1979 fiscal year.

The level of state dollars for equal yield is one of the major issues of concern in consideration of the new two-year state budget.

Total spending for city, exempted village and local school districts in 1975-76 was $2.6 billion, according to the expenditures council, an independent research organization.

Instructional costs—salaries, textbooks and supplies—accounted for $1.7 billion of the total, or 64.3 per cent of the total. This marked a decrease when compared to the 67 per cent that went for instructional costs in 1970-71.

Ten districts spent between $1,700 and $2,658 per pupil when local money was combined with state state equal yield. Seven districts spent less than $800 per pupil.

The largest group, 207 districts, were between $900 and $1,000 per pupil.

Among Ohio's 10 largest districts, the council found the $1,650 per pupil spending in Dayton to be the highest, followed by the $1,594 per pupil in the Cleveland City District.

The South-Western District in suburban Columbus was at the bottom in 1976-76 with spending of $1,101 per pupil, while Toledo trailed all other

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Wheeler's Mama: 10-4 And Trust The Lord

DEAR ABBY: I certainly identified with MIKE'S WIFE, the lady whose husband drives 200 miles a night to deliver newspapers and has had two serious accidents in five years. She said Mike has been driving for 20 years, and whenever he left, she was a nervous wreck until he returned home safely. She also said she's begged him to change jobs, but he refused.

Maybe I can give her a different point of view: My husband, David, is also a truck driver. He drives an 18-wheeler and is gone for a week to 10 days at a time. We've been married for six years, and the first year I was a nervous wreck if David wasn't home when I expected him. I'd find myself crying and shaking and planning his "funeral."

Girl Scout Camp News

The dates for the 1977 Session of Miska Day Camp have been set for June 20-23, 27-30 with rain dates June 24 and July 1. Each day's activities will begin at 9 a.m. and end at 2:30 p.m.

Registrations are to be given to troop leaders before May 12 or brought to Jefferson CCCU Activity Building on May 12 from 11-11:30 a.m. Mrs. Edna Nothstine, camp business manager, is in charge of registrations.

Units have been set up for Brownies, fly-up Juniors, Juniors, and Cadettes. Although most of the staff has been selected, there are a few openings on the Junior level.

Registration is open to all girls in grades 1-8 whether they are Girl Scouts or not. Any group wishing to sponsor a needy camper or any one wanting further information should contact Mrs. Katie Wamsley (474-1457) or Mrs. Rosemary Flowers (474-6312), camp registrar.

Personals

Mrs. Florence Dowden, 178 Parklawn Drive, celebrated her 87th birthday Sunday. Friends and relatives joined her at her home for a carry-in luncheon.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Wolford, Logan Elm Village, have returned home after spending five months in Florida.

Try using a serrated, curved-blade grapefruit knife when you are hollowing out halves of large oranges so you can fill the orange shells with mashed sweet potatoes (for an accompaniment to a main dish) or with fruit sherbet (for dessert). The orange shells look prettiest when the edges are notched.

It finally dawned on me that if the good Lord decided to take David, He would take him, and no amount of worrying on my part would change things.

From then on, every time David leaves on a trip, I pray to God to protect him from harm and get him home safely. Then I rest easier, knowing that my David is in God's hands.

Thanks, Abby, for being there.

DAVID'S WIFE IN ALABAMA
DEAR WIFE: And thanks for reminding us that there are enormous power in prayers. Read on for a letter from another trucker's wife:

DER ABBY: I married Luke, a wonderful guy who drove a truck long distance for a living. Sometimes he'd be away from home a whole week.

After four years and two babies, I begged Luke to quit that job because I worried constantly that he'd get killed on the road, and I wanted him home every night. I pleaded and nagged until he finally quit his job and took a truck driving job in town. It didn't pay nearly as well, but at least he was home every night. He stayed with it for a year, but I knew he wasn't really happy. He never complained, but I could tell he missed the road.

Then we had a long heart-to-heart talk, and I agreed to let him go back to his old job—long-distance trucking. Overnight his happy attitude returned! I'd be lying if I said I didn't miss him but I would rather have a husband who's happy when he is home, than one who isn't quite so happy but is home all the time.

LUKE'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Your Luke is lucky to have you for a wife.

DEAR ABBY: How did you get so far afield in your answer to that man who wrote to say that his mother (a former school teacher) returned all his letters after having "corrected" his spelling and grammar with a red pencil?

He was hurt to the point of writing to you, and you told him that his mother was doing him a favor by pointing his mistakes!

Good grief! You should take a poll to find out how many mothers get letters regularly from their married sons. And of those who do, how many really care if the letters contain a few errors in spelling and grammar.

I would have advised that man to quit writing to that crab of a mother for six or eight months. Then she might get the message and toss out those red pencils.

C.J. IN FORT PIERCE, FLA.

DEAR C. H.: Sorry, but your suggestion is no improvement on my answer. I did advise him to let his mother know that her red pencil corrections irritated him and to please knock it off.

Human Cannonball Sues For Privacy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even a self-proclaimed Human Cannonball has a right to privacy, says Hugo Zacchini, who wants the Supreme Court to decide that television news cameras can't record his 15-second act without his permission.

The nation's highest court was told Monday that a Cleveland television station should not have been protected by its First Amendment right to gather the news when it filmed Zacchini's entire act for use on a news program.

In the act, Zacchini is shot from a cannon into a net some 200 feet away. His famous circus family has boasted a Human Cannonball among its members for more than 50 years.

"The news media can't come in and under the guise of the First Amendment capture a performer's entire act," argued Cleveland lawyer John G. Lancione.

He said that Zacchini has a "right to publicity" — a cross between a property right and the right to privacy.

Under Ohio law, a performer has a right to exclusive control over the publicity given to his performance. What the high court has to decide is to what extent the news media is allowed to "invade" the performer's right in pursuit of a "legitimate public interest."

The court's decision, expected before the end of its current term in June, could break new legal ground in the area of free press-privacy tensions.

After the film of Zacchini's short flight at the Geauga County Fair was shown on the television station, Scripps-Howard Broadcasting Co.'s WEWS, the performer sued Scripps-Howard for $25,000.

The Ohio Supreme Court eventually ruled that the appropriation of Zacchini's publicity for his act was an invasion of his privacy, but that the station's First Amendment privileges barred recovery of any money damages.

KIWANIS SPEAKER — Joan Eller, left, demonstrates one of the YMCA's physical fitness tests on Dave Johnson of the Moundbuilders Kiwanis Club. Joan was the speaker at the Tuesday morning meeting of the Moundbuilders. She told members that the Y has physical fitness tests available to members and non-members for a small fee. The tests measure such things as pulse rate before and after exercise, percentage of body fat, and how physically fit a person is. After the initial tests are completed, fitness classes are available at the Y to improve physical conditioning. A total program includes exercise, diet, and a change of habits, such as quitting smoking, according to Eller. Guests at the meeting included Frank Hudson of the Ashville Kiwanis Club, and Richard Massey.

Carter Shares Elevator Ride

WASHINGTON (AP) — Being President used to mean never having to ride on crowded elevators. Standard Secret Service procedure is to snag an elevator for the exclusive use of the President.

It didn't happen that way when President Carter appeared at the Capitol to tell a joint session of Congress his plans to deal with the energy crisis.

All went smoothly when Carter arrived. An elevator usually reserved for members of the House and reporters was commandeered to take Carter to the second floor House chamber.

But on his way out, somebody apparently goofed. Carter stepped onto the elevator and was followed by a crowd of photographers as well as some House employees.

One floor below, the man who has been trying to remove some pomp from the presidency emerged smiling and unscathed.

One of the critics of the energy message Carter gave to Congress and the nation is the best-known gasoline station operator in America — the President's brother, Billy.

Word from Plains, Ga., quotes Billy as saying: "I don't agree with him on the tax on gasoline. I know people too well. I'm going to drive and you're going to drive and the guy that works in my yard making the minimum wage is going to drive if he's going to go into hock to do it.... It might start hurting me a little bit, but I'm still going to drive my usual 150 to 200 miles on Saturday, Sunday, when I'm off."

Gov. Dolph Briscoe of Texas also is unhappy with the Carter energy package.

One of the ways presidential candidate Carter won Briscoe's active support in Texas was with a letter in which he promised to work toward ending price controls on natural gas.

The last few months Briscoe has made several trips to the White House to discuss the developing energy program. Each time, reporters asked the governor if Carter planned to keep his promise. Briscoe said he was certain he would.

In his energy speech, Carter proposed an increase in natural gas

Town Meet Proves Flop

CLINTON, Mass. (AP) — Without an attraction like President Carter, Clinton can't get residents to town meetings.

Thousands gathered when Carter attended a mock meeting here in March, but a scant 268 persons showed up Monday for the real thing.

The annual meeting had to be postponed until Thursday because of the lack of a 300-voter quorum, officials said, and consideration of a budget exceeding $6 million was put in abeyance.

Those who did show up Monday offered some solutions, perhaps tongue-in-cheek.

"Do you think we could get the President back for a real town meeting?" one man suggested after adjournment.

"I'd settle for Mondale or a cabinet member," another of the town's 7,500 registered voters quipped.

Interstate Offers High Quality Drivers Training

ALL INSTRUCTION at the Interstate Driving School is on a private one-to-one basis on the road. This enables the instructor to concentrate on any specific problems that a pupil might have.

PARKING IS only one of many areas of driving that are studied at Interstate Driving School. Various state laws and regulations are stressed, along with good habits, vision, following and stopping distances, and insurance.

BUSINESS

Review

Ohio Law requires that before any resident of the state is issued a driver's license, they must complete a certified course of driver's education. So if you're required to take driver's education, why not take the best? In this area, that would have to be Interstate Driving School in Chillicothe.

At Interstate Driving School, all lessons in the car are private. This allows the instructors to work closely with the individual pupils and concentrate on each one's specific problems.

New classes are started each Saturday, and students from this area may enroll by calling the school. A pupil may finish the schooling in 2½ weeks. Other classroom work is completed on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Ray Montgomery supervises all classroom work, and those sessions stress the laws and various state regulations of driving. Also studied are such responsibilities as good habits, vision, following and stopping distances, and insurance.

Classroom sessions are aided by slides and movies. After classroom periods, the students get the chance to try what they have learned in four different on the road driving sessions that are two hours in length. The driving classes are conducted by Michael Bibb.

Each student is picked up and returned to his home, and if the student desires, he or she can make arrangements to use one of Interstate's cars for their Ohio driver's examination.

Also offered at Interstate Driving School is a remedial driving course that is made up of eight hours of classroom work. This course is geared towards problem drivers who have accumulated between six and 11 points on their driver's licenses. If the pupil completes the course successfully, the point total on the license is lowered by two.

A $50 down payment is all that is required to start instruction in Interstate Driving School. The remainder of the fee is due upon completion of the course, and can be paid in any number of ways, including Master Charge. Payment plans are also available.

Interstate in this area covers an area from south Columbus to Portsmouth.

All instructors at the school are trained for their work and are licensed by the Department of Highway Safety, which also conducts inspections of the school itself and the training offered there.

With approved training mandatory for all new drivers, it only makes good sense to get the best driver training available. So go to Interstate Driving School, where you get high-quality professional training.

THE ONLY vehicles used at Interstate Driving School are new and modern cars that have all the required safety features. New classes are started each Saturday, and you may enroll in the school by calling the offices in Chillicothe.

PULL IN and park at Interstate Driving School today. They can structure a comprehensive driving instruction course for you. And the cost is not high, but very reasonable when one considers the top standard of quality instruction that is received.

'Homework Helpline' Successful

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Some students here are spending a lot of time on the telephone weeknights — and their parents love it.

Ma Bell, which already serves as surrogate minister (Dial-a-Prayer), jester (Dial-a-Joke), botanist (Dial-a-Plant), and a variety of other functions, now helps fulfill another need: homework help.

Sponsored by the University Heights Branch YWCA, the "Homework Helpline" assists students who are struggling with Shakespeare, grappling with geometry or toiling through trigonometry.

Monday through Thursday, from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m., students from grades one through 12 can call a telephone number and talk to an operator who listens to their questions. The student then hangs up, and the operator telephones a volunteer on call who has knowledge of the subject. The volunteer then calls the student at home.

"It's an amazingly simple concept," says Chris Connell, director of the YWCA branch. The helpline has been open for about two months, and although the volume of calls has been sporadic — averaging six a night — Miss Connell is ringing with enthusiasm.

"Take, for instance, the night a boy called and said he was doing a biology project," she recalls, sitting in her bright yellow, poster-covered office. "He asked me, 'What happens when a frog hibernates?' I had no idea, but I found a teacher at Central State College who called him back. The boy called me later and said, 'Wow, thanks! I think I'm gonna' get an A.' Now that really makes me feel good."

Miss Connell emphasizes that the helpline is not an "instant answer line" for kids who could look up information themselves.

"We don't simply give out answers," she says. "The idea is that if a student can conceptualize his problem and verbalize it to someone else, that's part of the logical problem-solving process. We often throw the ball back at him and say, 'How would you go about finding the answer?'"

More than half the calls come from elementary school pupils, Miss Connell says, and the rest are from high schoolers and even some college students. "We don't advertise for college students, and when they call we try to sign them up as volunteers," she adds.

Reactions from parents and teachers have been enthusiastic. "We had one little girl call three nights in a row," Miss Connell recalls. "And the fourth night her mother called and said: 'Thank God you're here.'" If a student calls repeatedly with problems, Miss Connell calls the child's parents to talk about possible tutorial help.

Most of the requests involve math and science. Have they ever been stumped? "Not yet," Miss Connell laughs. "But sometimes I've had to call people who are not volunteers in the program, but we always manage to find someone who knows."

Volunteers are as diverse as the questions they answer. They include high school and college teachers, students, retirees, natives of foreign countries for language questions and business people. The approximately 25 volunteers offer their services one or two nights a week for two hours.

The company also increased the quarterly dividend from 27½ cents to 32½ cents per share, payable June 10 to shareholders of record May 10.

Logan Elm Downs Pickerington, 11-3

Logan Elm baseball team defeated Pickerington 11-3 Monday on the loser's diamond to set the stage for a Mid State League showdown Thursday.

The win gives the Braves a 7-0 league record, half a game ahead of Liberty Union, also undefeated at 6-0. The LU Lions were rained out Monday and Thursday travel to Logan Elm for the game that will virtually decide the league championship.

Liberty Union is a perennial baseball power in the Mid State and has a fine hitting ball club this year. After Thursday the Braves have only one Mid State League game remaining, at Fairfield Union next Monday.

Tim Justus was the winning pitcher in yesterday's battle, fanning seven, walking seven, hitting one batter and allowing only one hit as he went all the way.

For the Picktown Tigers, Matt Turbett started and was tagged with the loss. He was relieved by Sullivan in the seventh. They fanned seven, walked seven and were touched for 10 hits.

The Braves scored all the runs they needed in the top of the first inning. Jerry Scanlan and Randy Pontius were walked. Scanlan was forced at third and Lynn Strehle was safe at first on a fielder's choice. Chuck Cave singled through the right fielder to score Pontius and Strehle and wound up at third on an error charged to the right fielder. He scored on a wild pitch after Tony Crist walked. Tim Fouch tripped to right center to score Crist giving the Braves four runs.

Pickerington scored two runs in the bottom half of the first inning without the benefit of the hit on three walks and two passed balls.

The Braves added a run in the fourth when Mark Skinner walked, stole second and was driven in by Pontius.

Tide Beat Chiefs Twice

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Shragging off chill 40-degree weather, Tidewater's Pepe Mangual led off the tenth with a home run that gave the Tides a 3-2 victory over the Syracuse Chiefs in the first game of their International League baseball doubleheader.

The Tides went on to take the nightcap, 3-1. The only other scheduled International League contest Monday, Pawtucket at Toledo, was rained out. Mangual's blast was his second roundtripper of the year. Del Alston had his first homer of the season in the fifth to tie the score at 2-2.

Perhaps spurred by the chill breezes, the Chiefs stole eight bases and the Tides two in the opener. Syracuse's Larry Murray, who last season led the Eastern League in stolen bases while at West Haven, led the scamperspers with three steals.

In the nightcap, Ed Kurpil knocked a double off the top of the centerfield wall to put Tidewater on the scoreboard in the first inning and the Tides added two unearned runs in the second on Syracuse errors. The first came on a dropped line drive and the second on a wild throw to first.

Miami Wins Golf Tourney

OXFORD, Ohio (AP) — Host Miami University captured the 36-hole Mid-American Conference Invitational golf tournament over 14 other teams here at the Hueston Woods Course Monday.

Miami's Tom Rogan was the medalist with a 74-74—148 over the par 72, 7,373-yard championship course.

Toledo finished 12 strokes back at 778, followed by Ball State, 781; Notre Dame, 782; Purdue, 783; Illinois State, 784; Eastern Michigan, 786; Kent State and Central Michigan, 788; Eastern Kentucky, 789; Ohio University, 790; Cincinnati, 792; Bowling Green, 796; Northern Illinois, 807, and Louisville, 822.

Scott Steger of Ball State finished one stroke behind Rogan with a 36-hole total of 149. Tied at 150 were Charles Nieman, Cincinnati; Tom Green, Toledo; and Richard Clark, Eastern Kentucky.

Rounding out the top eight golfers were Biv Wadden of Notre Dame with 151; Jerry Vidovic, Illinois State, and Rob Hall, Toledo, both 152.

Nordiques Defeat Indianapolis, 8-3

QUEBEC (AP) — The Quebec Nordiques took a 2-0 lead over Indianapolis in their World Hockey Association best-of-seven semifinal playoff series with an 8-3 victory.

Left wing Steve Sutherland led the way with three goals. Marc Tardif and Normand Dube, each playing in his second game of the playoffs after being sidelined by injuries, also scored Monday night.

Real Cloutier, Francois Lacombe and Serge Bernier connected for the remaining Quebec goals, with Blair MacDonald, Pat Stapleton and Reg Thomas scoring for the Racers.

Mrs. Luella Donaldson of Escondido, Calif., made a hole-in-one with a newly-purchased ball. Two days later, her husband borrowed it and also posted an ace.

single. In the top of the sixth, Skinner walked, moved up on a single by Scanlan, stole third and crossed the plate on a passed ball.

In the bottom of the sixth Pickerington scored their last run on three walks and a sacrifice.

Five insurance runs were added by LE in the seventh. Cave, Crist and Fouch singled to load the bases. Then Jeff Collins drove in the first two with a single and Mike Davis doubled home both Fouch and Collins. Davis went to third on a fielder's choice and scored on Scanlan's sacrifice fly to deep center field.

The Braves have a 13-2 overall record.

Local Vet Analyzes Race Horses

The thoroughbred's ears stood straight up when he neared the track. He sensed he was going to the races. "He's psyching himself up," observed Dr. Thomas Ebenhack, of Circleville, state veterinarian who daily conducts the urinalysis tests on the thoroughbreds at Beulah Park.

"Horses, I believe, are just like human athletes. They have to get themselves ready for competition. It's instinct with them," says Dr. Ebenhack, a 1974 graduate of Ohio State University.

"Electric tests taken on horses indicate that the sound of the bell on the starting gate has a stimulating effect on the horses in the barn area. They sense that it is racing time."

One of the most common sayings around the race track is "that horse is all heart." Which brings up the question, do champion or consistently winning horses have bigger hearts?

"It would appear that they have," surmises Dr. Ebenhack. "It may not be always true, though."

"I do believe, though, that a horse that has an ailment, say arthritis, compensates for his below par physical condition by psyching himself up for a race."

"I believe that how a horse runs depends on his mental condition," says Dr. Ebenhack.

A lot of things enter into making a top thoroughbred, just like humans. Heredity plays a big part, he says.

It is also Dr. Ebenhack's opinion that a thoroughbred with a slower pulse rate usually has more stamina for competition.

"It would appear that a thoroughbred with a big lung capacity works easier," he says. "He gets more air, oxygen to his system. He has more endurance."

Dr. Ebenhack and his staff take urine specimens of the thoroughbreds to be sent to the testing laboratory at Ohio State to make sure that none of the horses have been given illegal medication while running in a race.

Richler went all the way for Southeastern as he gave up six hits, five walks and whiffed two.

Rick Stilings slammed a double for the Mustangs while Dave Clem, Mark Henson, Randy Adams, Carey Puckett and Keith Kern each rapped a single.

Adams and Kern each had two RBI's while Puckett had one.

Top Field Set In Beulah Park Feature Monday

The $20,000-added Robert J. Dienst Memorial Handicap, the feature event on closing day, Monday, is being assembled and it could turn out to be one of the best fields ever to compete at Beulah Park.

That's the word from racing secretary Vince Mara, who reports nominations have been received from the trainers of 12 thoroughbreds who have been campaigning around Keeneland, Oaklawn Park, Gulfstream and Hazel Park.

"Right now the race is firming up to be one of the best list of horses ever to race at Beulah Park," says racing secretary Mara.

"We already have received nominations for Visier, Go On Dreaming, Faneuil Boy, Dragset and Me-N-Mine," he says.

"Visier just ran second to Inca Roca at Keeneland. Inca Roca just last week ran second to the outstanding Honest Pleasure at Keeneland. So that's the type of horses we have received nominations on for the Dienst."

Some of the other big names on the list of nominees include Colonel Power, Borosun, Alastair, Jim Dan Bob, Golden Addition, Stray Coin and Bold Lightening.

Three Area Men Take Honors In Wheelchairs

Three area residents competed at Ohio State University in the Ohio Wheelchair games as members of the winning Columbus Buckeye Wheelers team this past weekend and all three qualified for this year's national games in San Jose, Calif., in June.

Larry Stant participated in six swimming events, 25-yard, 25-yard breaststroke, 25-yard butterfly, 25-yard backstroke, 75-yard individual medley and 200-yard freestyle, and won all six.

Roy Rungster won the intermediate round archery with a national record. He also captured the precision javelin and shot and placed second in heavyweight weightlifting and the javelin.

Dan Foust, a new resident of Circleville who resides on the Circleville-Tarlton Road, took first place in novice round archery which also qualified him for the nationals.

Reds Wash Away Atlanta Braves, 23-9 Carty Blasts Robinson

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

The awakening Cincinnati Reds did not wash away their frustrations Monday night. Instead, they almost washed away the Atlanta Braves.

Apparently determined to prove that anything the Los Angeles Dodgers can do, they can do better, the world champion Reds, who had scored only 25 runs in their previous seven games and went to Atlanta with a four-game losing streak and an embarrassing 4-10 record, unloaded 18 hits and buried the Braves 23-9.

Gen. Sherman could not have sacked Atlanta any better, although the Dodgers teed off on the Braves' beleaguered pitching staff for 16 runs and 16 hits Sunday.

"You don't wash away frustrations with games like these, you do it by winning 2-1 games," said Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson, who benched All-Star catcher Johnny Bench Sunday and threatened to seat other non-producers.

"I'd rather see a well-played game than one like this one. Don't get me wrong, I like to win any way we can, but the other kind pleases me more. This kind is nice when you're on the right end of it, but I don't enjoy them because when you're on the other end it's not very pleasant."

In the only other National League game, the Dodgers whipped the San Diego Padres 7-3 as Ron Cey walloped his sixth and seventh home runs of the season. The St. Louis-Chicago game was postponed by cold weather.

In the American League, the New York Yankees defeated the Baltimore Orioles 9-6, the California Angels trimmed the Oakland A's 11-6 and the Boston Red Sox edged Toronto 6-5 after the Blue Jays won the opener of a doubleheader 4-3.

The Reds scored six runs in the first inning and erupted for 12 runs in the fifth, tying a modern NL fifth-inning record and scoring the most runs against the Braves since they moved from Milwaukee to Atlanta in 1966.

George Foster drove in seven runs with a three-run homer in the first inning, a run-scoring double in the second and an RBI single as well as a two-run homer in the fifth. Bench and Cesar Geronimo also homered.

The Reds' onslaught made it easy for pitcher Jack Billingham although he was reached for 17 hits and all nine Atlanta runs in eight innings.

Dodgers 7, Padres 3

Cey drove in three runs with his two homers and Rick Rhoden won his third straight game with a seven-hitter. Cey, who has hit in all 15 Dodgers' games, increased his National League-leading RBI total to 25, a club record for the month of April.

Randy Jones, last year's Cy Young Award-winner, took the loss and dropped to 1-3. Steve Garvey also homered and Davey Lopes rapped three hits as the Dodgers won for the 10th time in their last 11 games. Dave Winfield and Gary Sutherland homered for the Padres.

Yankees 9, Orioles 6

Reggie Jackson answered Baltimore's boobies with a two-run fifth-inning homer, keying a three-run rally that propelled the Yankees to their sixth consecutive victory. Jackson, who signed a lucrative New York free agent contract after one season in Baltimore in which he played out his option, also legged out a ground double on the wet grass in a two-run first inning and doubled and scored in the eighth.

Thurman Munson also hit a two-run homer for the winners.

Jackson was booed continuously and had to be restrained from going after a fan when the game ended.

Manager Billy Martin said a jagged piece of glass was thrown at him and he was struck by a piece of ice. A large plastic container was thrown into right field when Jackson took his position in the seventh inning and about a dozen hot dogs were tossed toward home plate when he batted for the first time.

Angels 11, A's 6

Nolan Ryan allowed 18 base-runners in 5 2-3 innings but came away a winner as home runs by Don Baylor, Tony Solaita and Bobby Grich powered California over Oakland. Ryan struck out only four and allowed 10 hits, five runs, walked seven and hit a batter before being relieved in the sixth.

Blue Jays 4-5, Red Sox 3-6

Boston struck for four runs in the seventh inning, including two RBI by Jim Rice, tying the score and Rick Burleson's sacrifice fly scored the winner in the eighth as the Red Sox edged Toronto and split a doubleheader. The Blue Jays won the opener as Otto Velez belted two home runs, the second a two-run shot in the eighth that erased a 3-2 deficit.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Indians designated hitter Rico Carty took an undesignated swat at Manager Frank Robinson Monday, criticizing the skipper for lack of leadership during the club's current losing streak.

Carty, speaking at a dinner where he was honored as last year's Man of the Year on the club, said that a manager shouldn't rebuke his club when it's not winning.

"They talk about the leader of the team," Carty said in his characteristic thick Spanish accent. "They mention this player, that player. Who is the best leader of the team?"

As Carty spoke, Robinson was sitting next to him and also in attendance were all the 25 Indians players.

"It's the manager," Carty said, answering his own question. "When he leads, we get a ball club. Believe me, I'm telling this with all my heart."

The Dominican Republic native they call the Big Mon then added, "We need your help, Frank. If you don't help, we'll all be in trouble."

There's been plenty of introspection since the Indians dropped their sixth straight game Sunday, but none more pointed than Carty's remarks, which caught the whole team by surprise. The Indians have a 4-9 record, the worst in the American League east division.

After Carty's speech, Robinson, who is in his third year as manager, said, "Any player is entitled to say anything he wants to say about anything. That's all I've got to say about it."

General Manager Phil Seghi said that, "It sounded to me like Rico just wanted to perk up the whole ball club, all of us in the organization. I don't think he meant any harm."

However, pitcher Jim Kern expressed his disapproval of Carty's criticism. "I think Rico was way out of line," Kern said. "If he feels the way he said he does, he should have had enough respect for the manager to say it to him in private."

But third-baseman Buddy Bell reacted more philosophically. "I don't really believe he intended to put down Frank. I think Rico meant well, it just came out bad," Bell said.

Arcaro Cautious Rating 'Slew'

NEW YORK (AP) — Eddie Arcaro is impressed with Seattle Slew but he's not ready to put the family fortune on the speedster's nose in the May 7 Kentucky Derby.

You see, Eddie knew Slew's great granddaddy well.

"Seattle Slew reminds me a lot of Bold Ruler," said the one-time king of the stakes riders, winner of five Derbies, who finished fourth on the Wheatley Stable star at Churchill

Downs exactly 20 years ago.

"Bold Ruler leaped out of the gate like his tail was on fire. He would run until he dropped dead. But he didn't like to be rated. He was unmanageable. You had to fight him all around the track."

Despite his spotty record — a series of front-running victories, including the Preakness, and defeats in the other two jewels of the Triple Crown, the Derby and Belmont Stakes — the fleet son of Nasrullah turned into one of racing's alltime great sires.

His most famous offspring, Secretariat, won the Derby in a sweep of the Triple Crown in 1973. Three grandsons — Cannonade, Foolish Pleasure and Bold Forbes — followed in the succeeding years in having the garland of roses draped over their necks.

Now comes Seattle Slew, a chocolate comet unbeaten in six starts, bidding to become the fifth straight Derby winner with the rich Bold Ruler strain coursing through his veins. Color the blood blue.

It is a racing phenomenon. "I thought Seattle Slew ran a very impressive race in the Wood Memorial," Arcaro said, referring to the colt's 3 1/4-length victory at Aqueduct last Saturday. "But I still don't know how far he can go."

"After all, up until the race he had been worked no more than three quarters of a mile and timed in 1:11 2-5, which is not sensational. The trainer, Billy Turner, told me afterward that he had run a short horse. Why?"

"I still wonder what he can do over the 1 1/4 mile Derby distance and possibly against better opposition. Down in Kentucky, the hard boots are high on this horse, Giblee, who was a closing second to Slew in the Flamingo."

Arcaro, looking 20 years younger than his 61, was in New York over the weekend to join in the ABC commentary of the Wood, make some recordings for New York's Off-Track Betting and try out some eastern golf courses. The golf venture was spoiled by a blast of winter weather and rain which caught the famed saddlesmith without a topcoat.

Arcaro's experiences with Bold Ruler and an ingrained faith in heredity prevents the former jockey from giving Seattle Slew his carte blanche approval.

"My natural feeling would be that this horse wouldn't go the distance," he said. "Of course, Bold Ruler was not fully sound. He had a rheumatic condition. He had great speed but was inclined to bear out if you tried to hold him back."

"But blood lines can fool you. Secretariat could run 10 miles. Cannonade, Foolish Pleasure and Bold Forbes — they proved they could run and stay. Maybe Seattle Slew can do the same."

Warrant Charges Randle

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — A warrant charging suspended Texas Rangers second baseman Lenny Randle with aggravated battery in the spring training beating of Manager Frank Lucchesi has been issued by local authorities.

Randle is charged with beating Lucchesi in Orlando as the two were discussing Randle's status with the team. Lucchesi spent seven days in a hospital.

Lucchesi had no comment on the filing of the criminal charges and also declined to comment on whether he would file civil charges.

"Once again, I'm saying no comment," said Lucchesi. "I have two years under the statute of limitations to decide on something like that and I'm not worried about it at this time. My only worry is about the Rangers playing winning baseball."

Randle reportedly was angry over losing his job to rookie Bump Wills, son of former Los Angeles Dodgers star Maury Wills.

The Rangers' 30-day suspension of Randle ends Wednesday. The club has been trying to trade Randle, whom they fined $10,000.

State Atty. Robert Eagan of Orlando, the local prosecutor, said his office investigated the incident and that he made the decision to file the warrant without any prompting from the Rangers.

The warrant was sent to police in Arlington, Tex., and Tempe, Ariz., where Randle may be staying. Eagan's office said Randle will be extradited unless he returns voluntarily to Orlando and faces the charge.

The charge, a second-degree felony, carries a maximum 15-year prison term and-or a $10,000 fine.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth Sign.

FOR WEDNESDAY
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): An average day on the whole, but there's possibility of some complications in a financial matter. If you can, postpone action for 24 hours, when you can solve all with relative ease.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Work should go exceptionally well for you now and superiors will notice the results. If an employer, you will get more help than usual from those under your supervision. A fine situation all around.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Try to control a tendency to worry over personal problems. Help is on the way! In fact, you should not only find assistance in your current dilemma, but also gain insight into how to prevent future ones.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): A day in which your innately active and energetic self will be highly stimulated. Don't expect all to share your enthusiasm, however.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): It will now be up to you to make the overtures necessary to bring opposing forces together and conclude agreements beneficial to all. Success here will add a bright feather to your cap.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): By working quietly in the background, you may get some information highly useful to job or business interests. To insure favorable results, however, double-check before using it.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Curb an impulse to take on enterprises you would not ordinarily consider. Stellar influences now suggest that you stick to routine, avoid recklessness of any sort.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Certain changes are in order, others are NOT. Don't "go against the grain" needlessly, or penetrate too deeply into unknown waters before you have the know-how and facts.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Finesse and, possibly, a more original treatment will brighten everyday routine and stimulate your mind in more taxing matters. A good day for accomplishment.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): A day in which it will be important to use your very best judgment. If, on second thought, an idea or plan seems impractical, don't waste time trying to MAKE it workable.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Your best stock in trade is your warm personality; also your creative talent. Both should make this a fine day for you - IF you use them smartly.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Mixed influences. Organize talents and know-how to promote your interests more efficiently. Some personal plans may have to be deleted from your program at present.

YOU BORN TODAY: Taureans excel in the arts, music, as writers, promotional and advertising experts; also as scientists (especially in the medical field). Inventors and teachers. You are extremely ambitious, but not necessarily in a material way. Your striving is for extraordinary attainment - and you usually achieve it, no matter what your field. Your personality is a quiet one, reserved and almost shy at times, so you often amaze others with your obstinacy when opposed. In fact, you can be downright stubborn at times.

show, cowritten by Bob Ellison, Rocco Urbisci, Alan Thicke and Paul Mooney. He was asked if he has other writing projects in the works.

"Yes," he said. "I wrote a letter to the IRS, let 'em know the money will be on time." Any answer yet? "No, they're waiting until April's over. And then they're going to respond. In kind."

Pryor went serious all of a sudden to praise, with nothing held back, all those who helped him put his show together. He gave a quick grin when asked if a new movie is in store for him.

"Yes, I'm going to do a ski movie," said the 36-year-old ex-paratrooper from Peoria, Ill. "I'll play Clint Eastwood. I'm going to be the man who skied down the Bank of America."

LOS ANGELES (AP) —

Richard Pryor, the comic, actor and writer, has a comedy show coming up on NBC on May 5 — "The Richard Pryor Special?" The question mark led to a question of how the show came to be.

"Trial and error," Pryor explained in an interview on the porch just outside the NBC commissary. Over the distracting gagging and choking of the lunch crowd, he elucidated.

"Burt Sugarman called me up one day and wanted to sell me one of his cars, which cost $380,000. I said, 'I can't afford that kind of money.'"

Sugarman, executive producer of the show, was seated next to Pryor. He commenced chortling, indicating the possibility Pryor was off on a flight of comic fancy.

"He broke it down for me," Pryor continued. "He told me if I work hard, I might be able to afford his automobile. And I really want this car bad. That's how the special came about."

He was asked if he got the car in advance.

"No, but they will free my mother if the show is good," he said. "She's currently down in the basement at NBC."

If the show gets bad ratings, what happens with the car?

"Well," mused Pryor, "it's going to be tough for Mom, let's put it that way."

Pryor, who got industrial-strength raves for his acting in "Blazing Saddles" and "Silver Streak," is reputed to have, well, a weird mind.

For example, in his coming special, he will depict Gen. Idi Amin of Uganda making a rebuttal to an NBC editorial. And it is said that early in his career he did his standup comedy routine one night crouched beneath a piano. His version:

"I wasn't doing so good, so I just got under the piano and hid from the audience."

He was asked how the night club audience reacted. And said:

"I don't know. Some guy started playing the piano." Pryor, holder of a 1973 Emmy award for writing a Lily Tomlin special, served as head writer on his coming

'Well-Killers' Plan North Sea Assault

STAVANGER, Norway (AP) — A team of U.S. "well-killers" maneuvered a barge alongside a drilling platform in the North Sea today as they prepared to begin the tricky operation of capping a runaway oil well.

Meanwhile, the Norwegian government appointed a blue-ribbon panel to investigate the first blowout in Norway's offshore Ekofisk oil field.

The blowout is developing into a major issue for the fall general election and oil companies were worried that the minority Labor government would cancel plans for test drilling off northern Norway, which is to begin next year.

Heavy seas and gale-force winds on Monday thwarted plans to plug the well, which has been spewing oil and gas since a blowout Friday night. The storm suddenly faded away to a southern breeze early today, allowing Texas well-cappers Boots Hansen and Richard Hattenberg to move the 400-foot, pipe-laying barge Chocataw into position.

The storm also broke up more than 80,000 acres of spilt oil. One 15½-mile-long slick stretched southeast toward Denmark 180 miles away while a second slick 6-to-10-miles-long look a more northeasterly course toward Norway, 167 miles away.

The wind changes frequently in the North Sea in the spring and the slick is expected to drift for several days and perhaps weeks before reaching shores.

The two Texans, associates of the renowned American oil well fire fighter Red Adair, must first get necessary equipment aboard "Bravo," the oil-drilling platform operated by Phillips Petroleum Co. of Bartlesville, Okla. Then they plan to clean up around the production well to reduce the danger of explosion and fire.

The well-pluggers, carrying oxygen masks and fire-resistant overalls, will have to work in a shower of brownish-red oil that is spurting 60-feet high and water from a fireboat hosing down the platform to prevent a spark from igniting the geyser of fuel.

Board to approve sending an employee before registration deadline.

David Yates, another Board member, stated that he was not at all opposed to sending employees to any schools that would improve their job performance.

Taylor told the Board that "not a year goes by that many of our people, including Clyde and myself, have to go to refresher schools. Our people have to go to these special schools, or you will have to spend money anyway to go out and hire people to perform these jobs that have the necessary experience."

Houdeshell stated that there are no college degrees for water and sewage treatment plant operators. "You have to hire a man and train him for that specific job. And operator schools are a part of that training." According to Houdeshell, the operator schools are a non-profit system set up by water and sewage treatment plant operators throughout Ohio to train employees in the technical aspects of such jobs.

Clifton and Board member Dr. John Bowers again stated that they weren't opposed to sending employees to any schools or training sessions that would improve job performance, but if an employee went to a school with the chance to leave and secure a much better job, they would be opposed to reimbursement.

The Board agreed to give consideration to the matter, and to act on a policy at the next meeting.

As the next item of business on the agenda, Taylor asked the Board to agree to increasing the cost for installing water taps.

Taylor figured the average cost over a six month period to install a water tap, and found that with materials, labor, and equipment, the average cost came to $338. The city is presently charging $175 for the average three-quarter inch tap installation. So according to Taylor's figures, the city was losing an average of $163 on every three-quarter inch tap, which is the most common house tap according to Taylor. The rates were last adjusted in 1959.

Before Monday night's meeting, the fee schedule was as follows: ¾ inch tap, $175; one inch, $225; two inch, $325; four inch, $375; and six inch, $450.

The Board members agreed to raise the water tap fees. The new rates are as follows: ¾ inch, $325; one inch, $400; two inch $600; and four inches and up, cost plus $200 rate.

Project reports were also presented. They are, general contract on the new sewage treatment plant, 90 per cent complete; Sludge conditioning, 85 per cent complete; J.A. Guy—Heating and Ventilation at the sewage treatment plant, 95 per cent complete; American Electrical, 85 per cent complete; Universal Tank, 97 per cent complete; Contract 1S—the Ted Lewis interceptor sewer—80 per cent complete; and Contract 2, connecting the old sewage plant with the new one, 99 per cent complete.

With the agenda completed, the meeting was adjourned at 10:10 p.m.

Liquor Transfer Applications Filed

Ohio Department of Liquor Control Director Clifford E. Reich announced today that applications for new liquor permits and transfers of location or ownership are now being processed by the department.

"The applicant and intended premises are investigated carefully before any decision is made regarding the issuance or denial of a permit," the director explained. "The usual time for the processing of an application is about 45 days."

The department releases the names of persons applying for permits to the news media and to municipal and county officials for the purpose of obtaining all information pertinent to the application.

"We hope that persons who have objections to permits under consideration will inform the department immediately," Reich said. "We base our judgment to issue or deny on the quota of permits allowed in the area according to population and the findings of our investigations. If the application is qualified and there is an opening, we are required by law to issue the permit," the director concluded.

In Pickaway County, Circle G Corporation, doing business as Dailey Food and Meat Market, seeks to transfer their C1 and C2 permit to Gloucester Key Market, Inc., doing business as Circleville Little Giant, 289 Nicholas Drive. The application was filed for on April 21, 1977. A C1 permit allows the sale of 3.2 per cent beer for carry-out. A C2 permit allows the sale of high-powered beer and wine for carry-out.

Also in Pickaway County, Nathan Frankel, doing business as Nates Disco, seeks to transfer his D5 permit to Frances Frankel, doing business as Nates Disco, 126 W. Main St. The application was filed for on April 22, 1977. A D5 permit allows the sale of beer, wine, or spiritous liquor by-the-glass until 2:30 a.m.

LE Students Tell Kiwanis Of Symposium

Logan Elm High School students Kim Strous and Kevin Driesback discussed the Jerry Acker Jr. Science and Humanities Symposium held recently in Columbus at the Monday meeting of the Circleville Kiwanis Club.

Driesback gave background information on the symposium, and told Kiwanians that five students from Logan Elm and one from Teays Valley took part in the symposium. Miss Strous described her impressions of the conference.

At the meeting, Walton Spangler presented a plaque to club President Mike Clark in recognition of the Kiwanians' participation in the 1976-77 Bicentennial project.

Kenny Goode, Key Club secretary, was a guest.

Goodyear Sets Drilling Expansion

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. is expanding its natural gas drilling program to a deeper and more costly area below the Clinton formation from which most of Ohio's gas comes.

With three successful natural gas wells on its own property here, Goodyear has decided to probe what's known as the Rose Run stratum with a 6,500-foot experimental well on land leased in Jackson County.

Geologists figure the Rose Run could be five times as productive as the Clinton formation. But since the cost, and thus the risk, is greater, Goodyear said, the Ohio Energy Resource and Development Agency will underwrite one-third of the cost.

Law On Parochial Aid Fought

WASHINGTON (AP) — A lawyer representing Ohioans challenging a state law that provides up to $88 million in materials and services for non-public schools told the U.S. Supreme Court Monday that the statute is a sham for avoiding constitutional separation of church and state.

"It does not suffice to say the loans are being made to students and parents," attorney Joshua J. Kancelbaum of Cleveland told the justices in challenging the 1975 Ohio law.

Kancelbaum argued that the state legislature passed the law providing for loans of materials to students and not to nonpublic schools after a Supreme Court ruling in a Pennsylvania case outlawed use of taxpayer dollars for such loans directly to schools.

He said private schools in Ohio are "overwhelmingly sectarian" with 720 of 749 private schools in the state religiously affiliated.

Kancelbaum represents a group of Ohio taxpayers trying to have the law struck down as an "end run" around past court rulings against establishment of religion.

Defending the state law before the nation's highest court were Ohio Asst. Atty. Gen. Thomas V. Martin and Columbus attorney David J. Young.

Martin said the state believes it has overcome limitations placed on it by previous court decisions. Young, who represents the parents of students who attend private schools, called the law an "honest, genuine" attempt to structure aid to children under the court's guidance.

The Ohio law before 1975 allowed for certain health and other services to be provided by state employees on the grounds of private schools. The new law changed that practice in most instances, and now the tests and services are provided at a neutral site away from the private school premises.

Young said the state law should not be scrapped because of "assumed abuses," and argued that all types of aid available under the law—textbooks and other learning materials, diagnostic programs, therapy services and field trip transportation—are aimed at students and are not being used for religious purposes.

"The Ohio program is a neutral program of secular assistance," he said.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger appeared less than convinced by Kancelbaum's arguments as he peppered the attorney with questions.

Justice Potter Stewart, who wrote the court's majority opinion in the Pennsylvania case, and Thurgood Marshall seemed to be leaning the other way as they pressed Martin and Young to explain how the state's law can be implemented without undue entanglement of government and religion.

YMCA BENEFIT SALE — Ed Farynowski of the Circleville Kiwanis Club demonstrates a television set, one of many items donated for this Saturday's sale at the YMCA. Other contributions and support are welcome for the flea market, auction, and bake sale which will start at 10 a.m. at the YMCA.
